Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 29 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Showers today, mostly dry overnight.

Today:
A mostly dry start with some sunny spells, but cloudier across the Pennines with a few showers. Showers becoming more widespread in the afternoon, and perhaps heavy and thundery in places. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Tonight:
Showers dying out through the evening to leave a mostly dry night with some clear spells. However, thicker cloud may bring a little rain to the far south by morning. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Friday:
Cloud and outbreaks of rain likely to spread north across the region through the morning. Rain becoming more showery in the afternoon, with some brighter spells later. Maximum temperature 17 deg C (63 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Saturday and Sunday rather cool and unsettled with some showers and perhaps the odd spell of more persistent rain. Monday drier and brighter, with any showers few and far between.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.